Gilford School District Internet Acceptable Use Guidelines

Overview & Philosophy

Telecommunications and electronic information sources provide unique opportunities for research and communication. These tools make available vast resources that are increasingly essential in support of educational excellence. The Gilford School District supports access by students to these resources along with the development, by staff, of appropriate skills to evaluate and analyze such information.

Electronic information, however, alters the information landscape for schools by opening doors to an unlimited array of resources. In the past, instructional materials have been screened and approved, consistent with district guidelines and the developmental levels of students. The internet makes available electronic information that has not been screened for content, curriculum, or age level.

Staff will provide guidance and instruction in the use of material gleaned from electronic sources. Electronic research skills are now fundamental to citizenship and employment in the Information Age. In addition, students are responsible for appropriate behavior on the school computer networks, just as they are in the classroom or any school facility. Access is provided to those students who agree to act in accordance with the standards for behavior and communication.

Electronic communication opens the world to our students. The benefits to our school community of these resources far exceed the disadvantages. However, the Gilford School District recognizes that parents and guardians are ultimately responsible for determining the standards for minors to follow in regard to information sources. For that reason, the District recognizes and respects the rights of families to decide whether or not to apply for access to the information network available at school.
